expected to be available at the Oregon Department of Human Services Website on Jan. 1.

Those who choose to print the form from the web must use legal-sized paper (8 1/2" x 14") or Multnomah County will be required to reject the form.

Unlike marriage licenses, the Declaration of Domestic Partnership requires no solemnization from a religious or legal official. Instead, forms require signature verifications and seal of a Notary Public.

Volunteer notaries will be on site at the Multnomah County offices for the first several business days after the new law takes effect. Both parties are required to present identification for the notarization.

Like marriage licenses, the fee is $60 to register a domestic partnership. Fees are payable in cash or certified money order. Personal checks, credit and debit cards will not be accepted.
