Taps Open for Zoo Brew

Nights at the Oregon Zoo are full of excitement — several nocturnal species keep the zoo hopping from sunset to sunrise — but usually only the animals get to partake in the fun. On Friday, June 4, humans get to join the party at Zoo Brew, where some of the best beer in the Northwest will combine with one of the greatest bands ever to come out of Oregon: the Crazy 8s.

The Crazy 8s are reuniting to play Zoo Brew, the Oregon Zoo's annual festival of Northwest brewers, Friday, June 4, from 5 to 10 p.m.

Inducted into the Oregon Music Hall of Fame in 2007, this ska-rock band will provide the microbrew festival's soundtrack, playing live on the zoo's main stage as attendees sample beers from more than 20 local microbreweries.

Tickets to Zoo Brew are $25 in advance ($30 at the door) and include a commemorative glass and 10 tokens. The annual festival of Northwest brewers runs from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m., rain or shine. Proceeds will support the Zoo To You education program, which helps engage kids in animal education through hands-on learning activities.

Zoo Opens Early for Summer

The Oregon Zoo is welcoming summer with longer hours, new exhibits and a host of seasonal special events. Zoo gates will open at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m. Visitors may remain on grounds until 7 p.m.

"Many of our visitors like getting here early to beat the crowds," said Jim Gilbert, the zoo's guest services manager. "Not all the animals are out at 8 a.m., but it's interesting to watch as keepers prepare the exhibits for the day. It's also neat to see the animals as they first enter their exhibits — they're usually quite active then."

Among the zoo's early risers are eagles, salmon, frogs, turtles and waterfowl in the Great Northwest exhibit; penguins and Inca terns in the Penguinarium; birds in the Vollum Aviary; naked mole rats and spiny mice in the Africa exhibit; fish and reptiles in the Amazon Flooded Forest; and sometimes elephants.

Along with more time to enjoy the animals, zoo visitors will be treated to a summer chock full of events, shows and exhibits, including 17 summer concerts, a new dinosaur exhibit, Zoo Brew, Zoolala and more.

Longer hours and more events lead to a summer of fun at the Oregon Zoo.
