

'City of Roses'

The PO

Club Scene Murder

A 32-year-old dance club employee is shot and killed after a New Year's morning altercation outside downtown night spot

See page 3, inside

The Portland Observer 41

Volume XXXXI, Number 1

www.portlandobserver.com

Wednesday • January 5, 2011

Established in 1970

Committed to Cultural Diversity

years of community service

Title Game excitement

Mascots for the Oregon Ducks and Auburn Tigers set the stage for the NCAA college football title. The BCS championship game is scheduled to air on ESPN on Monday, Jan. 10 at 5:30 p.m. A special free broadcast will also take place at the Hollywood Theater on Northeast Sandy Boulevard.

Ducks play for a national championship

The Oregon Ducks from the PAC 10 conference will face the Auburn Tigers from the SEC conference in the BCS national championship game to be played Monday night Jan. 10

Kick off time from University of Phoenix Stadium in Glendale, Ariz. is scheduled for 5:20 p.m. ESPN will provide the national television coverage.

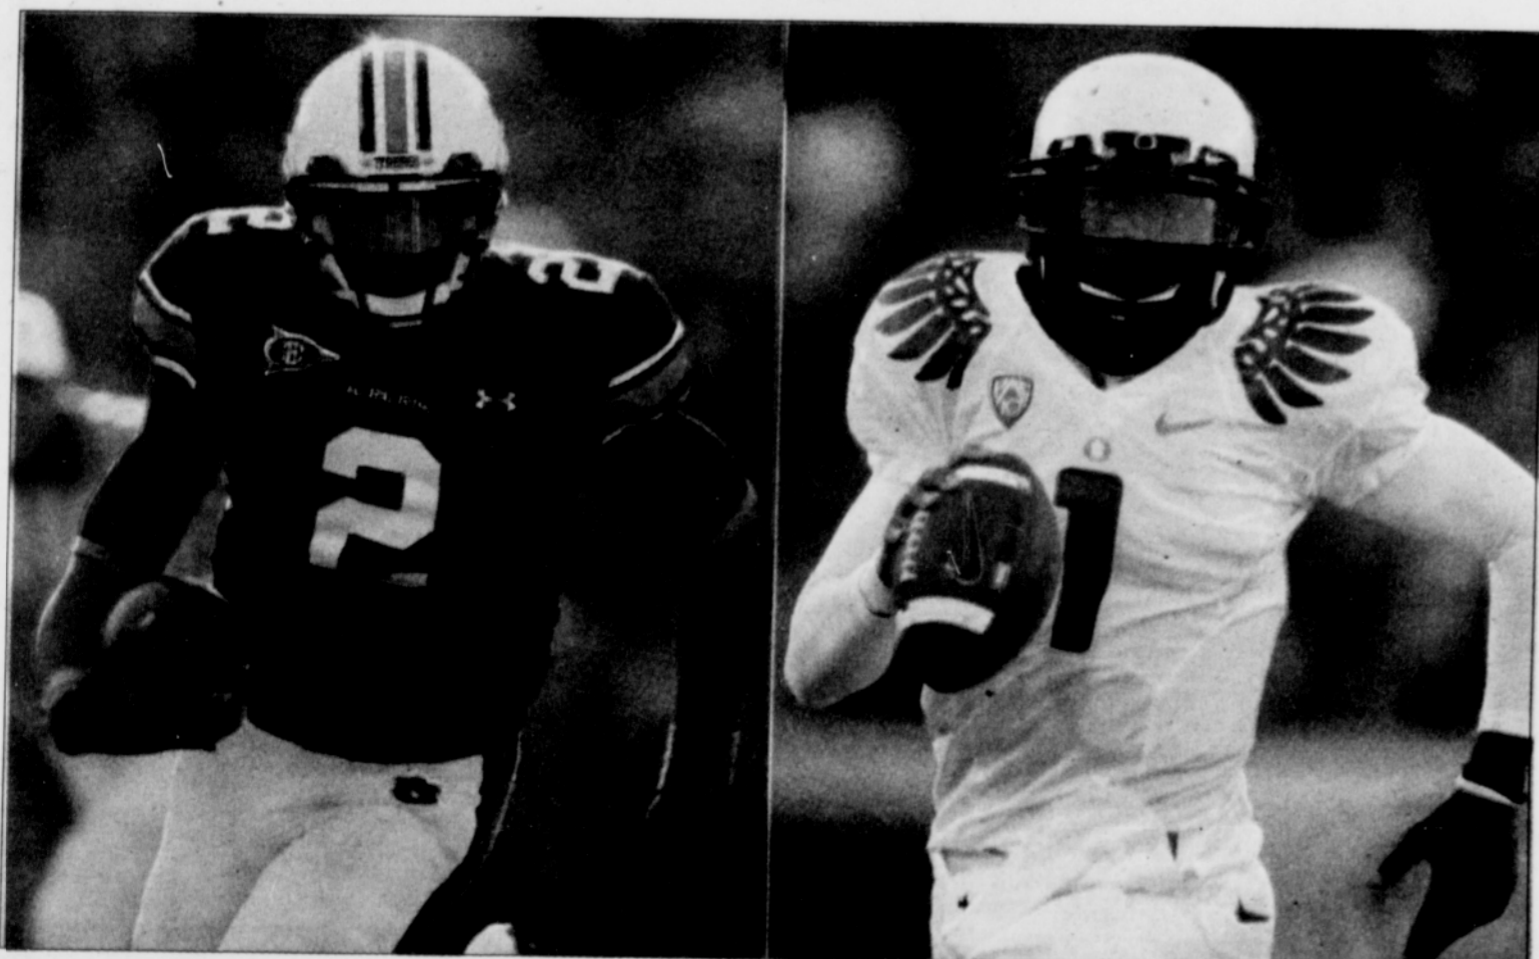

Oregon's players have a serious task ahead: facing top-ranked Auburn and their Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Cam Newton. The second-ranked Ducks are also playing in their first national championship.

"We're excited to be here," Oregon coach Chip Kelly. "The amount of support we get everywhere, it's an exciting time to be a Duck."

Now comes the biggest week in the program's 115-year history.

Oregon (12-0) had a fairly easy run through the regular season, crushing teams with an uptempo offense that had opponents feigning injuries in an attempt to slow it down. The Ducks had one close game — 15-13 over Cal — and led the nation with 49.3 points per game while averaging nearly 540 yards.

continued ▼ on page 18

Oregon Ducks Quarterback Darron Thomas, (right), a sophomore who leads his team to the Jan. 10 BCS title game with an undefeated record, will face Auburn Quarterback Cam Newton, (left) the season's Heisman Trophy winner.