Changing the Colors of Sustainability

Willamette Hosts Noted Activist

Angela Davis

Angela Davis, an iconic figure from the modern Civil Rights movement, an author, former member of the Black Panther Party and visiting professor at Syracuse University, will deliver a lecture as part of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Celebration at Willamette University in Salem.

Everyone is welcome to hear her talk titled "Changing the Colors of Sustainability" on Friday, Jan. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the Smith Auditorium on the Willamette campus.

The event is sponsored by the university's office of multicultural affairs and the Salem Multicultural Institute. Proceeds will support the Oregon African American Museum.

Advance tickets are available for $15 by calling 503-581-2004 or visiting SalemMulticultural.org. Tickets at the door are $18.

Opt In about things that matter

The Portland metropolitan area faces hard choices as it builds and sustains great communities. Public opinion about parks, transportation, recycling and other issues that affect quality of life are needed from a broad cross section of residents.

That's why Metro created Opt In, a panel of people from around the region that can help guide decisions that affect communities and families. By completing two to three short online surveys each month, you can let Metro and other decision-makers know what matters to you. www.oregonmetro.gov/connect
