Tested Vehicle Information: 3.6 Liter V6 VVT Pentastar engine; 6 speed automatic transmission; 19 City MPG, 29 Highway MPG;

2011 Chrysler 200 Touring

Tested MSRP $23790.

BY KATHLEEN CARR

The Chrysler 200 is redo of the Sebring with some updates to the vehicle and a change of name. This makeover includes updated exterior styling, a vastly improved passenger cabin, a new 3.6-liter V6 engine and retuned suspension and steering.

The 200 has a re-tuned suspension and a new optional engine. The base engine is a 2.4-litre four cylinder and there's a new optional 3.6-litre Pentastar V6, which is quickly establishing the engine that you would prefer. Power is rated at a solid 283-hp, an increase of 97-hp over the old 2.7-liter unit.

Chrysler changes to the suspension have reinforced it's suspension systems so that it can operate independently and accurately and provide a much better ride, quicker steering, and more responsive handling with an improved braking system. There were twenty six changes to suspension and sub-frame bushing replaced; upgraded springs, shock absorbers, stabilizer bars and tires has made this an impressive ride.

The 2011 Chrysler 200 is a midsize sedan entry-level LX model comes equipped with 17-inch steel wheels, a four-speed automatic transmission, air-conditioning, cloth upholstery, 60/40-split-folding rear seatbacks, full power accessories, cruise control, a tilt-and-telescoping steering wheel with audio controls and a four-speaker sound system with a CD player and auxiliary audio jack.

The Touring model adds some desirable extras including 17-inch alloy wheels, a six-speed automatic, automatic headlights, a power driver seat, automatic climate control, a trip computer, upgraded interior lighting, a leather-wrapped steering wheel and shift knob and a six-speaker sound system with satellite radio.

After driving the 200 Touring I was quite impressive with the overall package. It has improved the handling and the ride of the Sebring. The cabin is more modern and the materials are more luxurious in appearance.
