Comedy Tackles Courage and Fear

Artists Repertory Theater presents the Northwest premiere of 'Jack Goes Boating' a contemporary romantic comedy about the courage and fear involved in everyday people hacking away at the jungle of a city searching for love, meaning and lasting relationships in this day and age.

Love blossoms in the grungy reality of New York when a regular guy named Jack – a lovable loser who is desperately romantically challenged – finds the girl of his dreams. His plan to win her heart includes a boat ride in Central Park and cooking a gourmet meal – never mind the fact that he doesn't know how to swim and can't cook. With the help of his friends, Jack learns to swim, cook, smoke pot and love – all to a reggae soundtrack. But meanwhile, those best friends roil in the complexities of a modern marriage that is slowly becoming unhinged.

Performances continue through April 15 on the theatre's Morrison Stage at Southwest 15th Avenue and Morrison Street. For tickets and more information, call 503-241-1278 or visit artistsrep.org.

Art Show for Social Change

A group of local African and African American men dedicated to creating social change in our community through the arts is sponsoring an art show this weekend to generate the support needed to help them create their own art center.

The show will take place Saturday, April 2, from noon to 6 p.m. at Caffe D'Arte, 1615 N.E. 15th Ave., between Broadway and Weidler near Lloyd Center. The show will feature artwork by national artists and international artworks.
