What's a Pirate to Do?

Set sail on a musical adventure

The awarding winning Oregon Children's Theatre presents How I Became a Pirate, a musical adventure which opened Saturday with shows continuing through May 22 at the Winningstad Theatre, 1111 S.W. Broadway.

Jeremy Jacob is at the beach, innocently building a sand castle, when a band of pirates lands nearby. They recognize him as an extremely talented digger and, having a treasure of their own to bury, they decide to recruit Jeremy to join their crew.

Jeremy soon learns that when you're a pirate, you don't have to eat vegetables or go to bed at all. You can talk rough, and sword fight, and say "Arrrgh!" any time you want. It's a perfect life...except that there is no one to tuck you in at night, or give you kisses, or read stories to you. What's a pirate to do? Find out as you set sail on this musical adventure.

Showtimes are Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. Tickets are $19-$26 for adults and $16-$20 for children and seniors. Call the box office at 503-228-9571 or through TicketMaster at 503-790-ARTS or ticketmaster.com.

Dylan Earhart as Jeremy Jacobs and Michael Mitchell as Braid Beard, the captain.
