

Leonard's Daughter Dies

Kara Leonard, the adult daughter of Portland city Commissioner Randy Leonard, shot and killed herself Sunday after a long battle with drug abuse. It happened on Larch Mountain located in east Clark County.

Local Store Clerk Shot

Portland police were looking for two suspects after a female clerk was shot during a robbery at Cigarette Plus, 2224 N. Lombard St. just after 10 a.m. Tuesday. Police said the woman was taken to a hospital and was expected to survive.

Tuberculosis Outbreak

At Roosevelt High School on Tuesday, as many as 200 hundred students and staff were tested for tuberculosis after a student recently was diagnosed with the disease. An informational meeting was held on Monday evening with parents.

Week in The Review

Separation after 25 Years

Former California Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger and Marie Shriver

couple said their situation is "a time of great personal and professional transition for each of us.

Jailed Youth Concerns

The Oregon Senate passed a bill to keep youth accused of Measure 11 violent crime out of adult jails. Advocates hope the measure will send a strong message to the Legislature that teens in adult prisons are at risk.

Helping produce plywood and paychecks in Rogue River.

The plywood mill has always been the biggest employer in this tight-knit southern Oregon community. When it shut down two years ago, a lot of families felt the impact.

Now, thanks to funding from the Oregon Lottery, the plant is up and running again, employing more than 100 workers.

"It just brings stability to a lot of people's lives," says local resident and mill employee Joshua Mize. "Rogue River is a really nice place to live, and having jobs keeps the town alive." A business - and a community - brought back to life. It's just one more example of how Lottery dollars work to keep Oregon working.

It does good things™

Find out more at ItDoesGoodThings.org. Lottery games are based on chance and should be played for entertainment only.