A scene from the documentary Concrete, Steel and Paint.

Prisoners' Murals Documentary

An award-winning film about an extraordinary mural project with prisoners, crime survivors, and their families called Concrete, Steel & Paint, will premiere in Portland, Wednesday, July 27 from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. the Oregon Association of Minority Entrepreneurs conference room.

The film screening and audience features guest speakers from Philadelphia; Tony Heriza, filmmaker and co-director, Jane Golden, founder and executive director of the Philadelphia Mural Arts Program.

Also, Portland presenters will share their insights about mass incarceration and the over-representation of youth and minorities in U.S. prisons.

The event is free and open to the public with food and refreshments provided. For more information, contact Koffi Dessou or call 503-823-4429.

OAME is located on 4134 N. Vancouver Ave.
