Zoo Hosts Powerhouse Weekend

Los Lobos will take the Oregon Zoo stage with Los Lonely Boys Sunday, July 24 as part of the Oregon Zoo summer concert series.

Summer concerts with Indigo Girls and Los Lobos

The Oregon Zoo has a treat in store for music lovers: Two must-see acts in one weekend. Concertgoers can get their folk fix when the Indigo Girls play the zoo Friday, July 22, and then take in some East L.A. rock 'n' roll when Los Lobos perform on Sunday, July 24.

Both concerts are part of the Oregon Zoo Summer Concerts, presented by Regence BlueCross

BlueShield of Oregon with support from U.S. Bank.

While the Indigo Girls came into prominence as part of the late-'80s singer-songwriter revival, they had staying power where other artists from the same era quickly faded. Their two-women-with-guitars formula bring two distinct personalities and songwriting styles.

Opening for the Indigo Girls is Mount Moriah, a duo offering a far-reaching and nontraditional take on classic folk themes.

Los Lobos and Los Lonely Boys will take it up a notch with their East L.A. rock. This is a band that continually redefines itself and expands its scope with each passing year, while never losing sight of its roots.

from Texas known for luscious vocal harmonies, irresistible grooves, and potent songs with unshakeable pop appeal. The band was first loved for their global hit "Heaven," which went to the top of the Billboard charts and earned a Grammy award.

Tickets may be purchased in person at the zoo daily. Tickets can also be purchased (with service charge) at all Ticketmaster outlets.

Beaverton's Last Tuesday: Music, Food, and Art

Annual concert series debuts

Bring your dancing shoes and a thirst for the arts to the Beaverton Arts Commission's eighth-annual Beaverton Last Tuesday summer-time series celebrating music, food and art.

Rain or shine, the lively outdoor concert series from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. continues on the last Tuesday of July and August at The Round Fountain

Plaza, 12600 Crescent St., adjacent to the Beaverton Central light rail station.

Local artists will have their artwork displayed and available for purchase throughout the plaza. Featured art work, includes jewelry, fused glass, wood art, abstract works, and acrylic and watercolor paintings. Local restaurants Typhoon!, Mio Sushi and Mingo's will offer indoor and outdoor dining, as well as refreshments for Beaverton Last Tuesday audiences.

"Let's all make the most of the much belated arrival of beautiful summer weather," said Mayor Denny Doyle. "Come to The Round for Beaverton Last Tuesday and continue the summer fun with another night of great with music, delicious cuisine and fabulous local art!"

On Tuesday, July 26, Patrick Lamb, a Southern blues and jazz artist

Smith and the Family and 2007 Grammy nominee, will perform for audiences. Lamb has performed with groups that opened for BB King and played with G.C. Cameron, formerly with the Temptations.

On Tuesday, Aug. 30, Keegan Smith & The Family, an eclectic mix of musicians, producers, and bandleaders from the Northwest's music scene, will perform energetic and sunny sounds for audiences.

Dance demonstrations will be presented during band intermissions, including the Painted Sky/Northstar Dance Company, honoring the Native American culture in July; and Valley Square Dancers in August.

Parking is available off of Southwest Cedar Hills Boulevard at Westgate Drive in the former Westgate Theater lot.
