Community Connections

Attention Small Businesses!

Based on the diverse community which is a vital part of our lives, the Portland Observer is doing special advertising for all small businesses to show appreciation for the hard work and great service they provide in the Portland Metro Area. To join our effort to promote your services, just write a 100-word statement. In this statement, let our readership know why you think your business is meaningful to the customers you serve and how it's important to you as a business owner. All ads are $100.00, including a profile picture and article at no additional cost. Let The Portland Observer support your local business advertising.
