Worship in Pink Fights Breast Cancer

Singers join Survivors Choir

Breast cancer survivors are invited to join Portland's first-of-its-kind Survivors Choir.

Directed by Julianne R. Johnson, a local actress, director, performer and recording artist, the choir will perform at this year's Komen Race for the Cure on Sept. 18 and during a Worship in Pink community celebration on Oct. 30.

Worship in Pink was developed by Susan G. Komen for the Cure to partner with interfaith communities across America to spread the life saving message of breast cancer screening and early detection, and to honor survivors from individual communities.

The first rehearsal for the choir will be held on Monday, Aug. 15 at Clergy and other representatives from local churches gather for a Worship in Pink Clergy Breakfast last June as part of a breast cancer awareness program presented by Legacy Health, the Susan G. Komen for the Cure foundation, and Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon.
