to eat anything because of my experiences of the month."

13-year-old Yusif Tuffa, raised Muslim his entire life, agreed.

"All your bad deeds go away if you fast," he said.

"Fasting is only for the sake of Allah, and it's only known to Allah" said Poole-Dawan. "We provide food for those in need because you can't fast if you don't have food," she said.

"We have seen our people divide their food in half so they can see others eat."

This year's Ramadan is the first for new community member Ibeth Hernandez, who is fasting for the first time. On Monday she visited the Mosque for prayer in the women's Musalla area.

"Everybody asked me if I was excited for Ramadan, and I said I wasn't looking forward to being hungry," Hernandez said. "But now, I am sad it is almost over."

Poole Dawan smiled with her words.

Before leaving, she asked me to choose a head covering I felt connected to, and then blessed the scarf for all those who have helped me get to where I am currently in life. She said she believes "we are all people of the book."

"All of us have equal responsibility for the life of the community, and the mosque has to be maintained by its believers," she said.

"Ramadan is a time for us to come together."
