Library Expands E-Books Collection

Multnomah County Library has expanded its e-book collection with 8,500 new nonfiction e-books on economics, science and technology topics. The e-books complement the library's current general nonfiction e-book offerings.

This new service is made available through "patron-driven acquisition." This means that the library pays for books only as patrons use them, responding to user interests without making permanent purchases or taking shelf space.

Each title can be viewed online and downloaded for up to seven days. To view a title, a library cardholder simply clicks on the title in the library catalog and enters his or her library card number. There is no limit on the number of people who can access an e-book simultaneously, or to how many times an e-book can be viewed.
