Clowns Without Borders Show

Leapin' Louie Lichtenstein and others from Portland circus scene will perform at the 4th annual Portland Clowns Without Borders Benefit Show, Friday, Nov. 4 at Da Vinci Middle School.

The benefit will raise money for Clowns Without Border to send teaching and performing groups to Haiti over the next year to work with thousands of children living in tent camps, as well as to work with teachers and camp leaders.

Portland's Lichtenstein and Sarah Liane Foster each have led multiple trips to Haiti in the last few years, and there's a Clowns Without Borders group in the country now. Clowns Without Borders USA also just returned from the tsunami zone of Japan and is active in several other crisis areas around the world.

Supporting group's goodwill mission

Portland's circus and physical theater community will come together for the 14th annual benefit for Clowns Without Borders, a Portland-based group that strives to relieve trauma through laughter in areas of crisis around the world.

The magic, music and family-friendly show, which regularly draws between 400 and 500 people, takes place Friday, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at Da Vinci Middle School, 2508 N.E. Everett. Tickets are on a sliding scale, $10-25 adults, $5-10 kids 12 and under.

Headline performer this year is Patrick McGuire, on break from his day job as a featured juggler with Cirque de Soleil. He will join Charlie Brown, funniest juggler alive; comedy cowboy Leapin' Louie Lichtenstein; Noah Mickens (aka William Batty) of Wanderlust Circus; physical comedian Angel Ocasio; Strong Woman Terra Zarra; Brittany Walsh and her arrows of amazement; and much more.
