The magical world of a forest is captured in a special photo exhibit at the World Forestry Center Discovery Museum.

Magical Forests in Pictures

Entering a forest opens the gates to a magical world for everyone. It is this love of the forest that inspired a group of Croatian foresters, enthusiasts, and forest lovers to express their admiration for the forests in this unique way through distinctive photographic images.

"The Forest through the Eye of a Forester" strives to demonstrate the wealth of forests as an important natural resource for forest-related livelihoods, as well as the added value forests bring as a living environment for ecosystems existing within them.

Comprised of 65 photographs, the exhibit is now on display through Dec. 31 at the World Forestry Center Discovery Museum at Washington Park. Museum admission is $8 for adults, $7 for seniors and $5 for children.
