Robert Tomlinson's Ballades #8.

'Zula Princes,' a brick and paint work by Olinka Broadfoot.

Featured Artists for January

A diverse group of artists are featured this month at Guardino Gallery, 2939 N.E. Alberta St.

Robert Tomlinson, who creates colorful mixed-media works on paper, will feature a work called "Ballades," which honors the specific musical compositions by Brahms, the only music listened to in his studio while his work was being made.

Olinka Broadfoot will also be showing her sculptures of brick and clay.

She traveled to a brick factory in the Czech Republic to work with their product.

Kurt Dahlke, an abstract expressionist painter, will show the pine boards he coated with joint compound and layers of acrylic paints and graphite marks. Dahlke's paintings combine mysterious beauty with soothing rhythms and energetic motion.

Kurumi Conley will display colorful kiln formed glass. Her work has the luscious, edible quality of candy. Her chairs, trays and bowls are a mixture of translucence and complex color patterns.
