The monthly Planetarium show at MHCC for March will focus on Venus, Mars and other celestial objects.

Mars and Venus at their Best

If you enjoy gazing at the night sky, it's a "planet-a-palooza" this spring at the Mt. Hood Community College Planetarium.

"Mars and Venus will be at their brightest this spring and all of the other classical planets can be easily found in the night sky," says Pat

Hanrahan, Planetarium director, who will present live shows at 7 and 8:15 p.m. on Monday, March 5 on the Gresham campus. "It is a rare time that we can see so many of our planets in the same night sky."

Hanrahan says that springtime is also galaxy time. The famous Virgo

Cluster of Galaxies will be visible while Orion is starting to hide in the western skies.

Children are welcome to attend. The planetarium is wheelchair accessible. Admission for the general public is $2 and free for MHCC students.
