"American Infamy 3," Roger Shimomura's graphic print of a World War II Japanese-American Internment Camp.

Exhibit Tells Story of Incarceration

Oregon Nikkei Legacy Center, 121 N.W. Second Ave., invites the public to a visual exploration of graphic prints depicting American internment camps for people of Japanese descent during World War II. A free open house will be held on Thursday, June 7, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. to launch the new exhibit: Roger Shimomura: Selections from Shadows of Minidoka. The exhibit will be on display through Sept. 2. Shimomura's bold and accessible work captures a child's eye view of America's regrettable experiment with concentration camps. As one of thousands of children imprisoned along with their parents and grandparents, Shimomura's art tells an important story and yet is visually very welcoming. It is in the juxtaposition of everyday 1940s life, and the accoutrements of prison life, whether that be barbed wire or armed soldiers keeping watch, that Shimomura engages the audience.
