Afropop superstar Thomas Mapfumo will perform Wednesday, Aug. 22 at the final installment of this year's Sunset at the Zoo series.

'Lion of Zimbabwe' to Close Series

Afropop superstar Thomas Mapfumo helps the Oregon Zoo close out its popular Sunset at the Zoo series, presented by Regence with support from U.S. Bank.

Known as the "Lion of Zimbabwe," Mapfumo is one of the most revered musicians in the world. The 67-year-old now makes his home in

Eugene and continues to tour, playing his inspirational chimurenga music to fans the world over.

The Wednesday, Aug. 22 Sunset at the Zoo event will also feature the eco-conscious folk-reggae of Austin Farrell, a "Wild Life Live" bird show, a performance of "Little Bugs, Big World" by the Dragon

Theater puppet company, and some advanced hula-hoopery from the Mayor of Hooperville.

Guests can also participate in face-painting, crafts and games, self-guided night hikes, animal talks and bat-house building. Sunset at the Zoo starts at 5 p.m. and is free with regular zoo admission after 4 p.m.
