The McMenamins Oompah Band will perform in St. Johns Saturday for the north Portland neighborhood's Oktoberfest.

Oktoberfest in St. Johns

Neighborhood hosts Saturday fun

Roasted corn, sausage, hot cider and beer—the tastes of October are just around the corner as the St. Johns Oktoberfest takes off in north Portland on Saturday, Oct. 6 from noon to 8 p.m.

A benefit to light up the St. Johns business district's street trees for the holiday season, the festival takes place on the corner of North Ivanhoe Street and Charleston Avenue in the parking lot of the McMenamins St. Johns Theater and Pub.

The family-friendly event will have free music, food and fun. The music includes the McMenamins' Oompah Band, to play at 1 p.m.; the Roseland Hunters at 4 p.m.; and the Catch and Release band at 6:30 p.m.

Special Oktoberfest mugs are available for sale at Weir's Cyclery, The Body Bistro, Etcetera, The Man's Shop, Ace Hardware, Hustad Funeral Home, and the Olive and Vine. Local businesses will have special raffle prizes, and crafters and artists will have booths along Charleston Avenue, which will be closed to traffic. There will be activities for kids, provided by Coffee Kids, and games for adults, organized by the St. Johns Boosters.
