Service Honoring Obo Addy

A memorial service has been announced for master drummer Obo Addy. His family invites the public to remember Addy's life and work on Saturday, Oct. 6 at Lewis and Clark College's Agnes Flanagan Chapel at 5:30p.m.

An award-winning composer, brilliant musician, skilled teacher, beloved husband, father and grandfather, Addy's memorial program will include speakers, musical performances, a slide show and a short film.

Addy's legacy will also be honored in his hometown of Ghana. His wife Susan will fly to the Sowutuom region of Accra, Ghana for a traditional ceremony as Obo Addy's title of Chief is passed to the next chosen person.

To help raise funds for the memorial and assist with covering expenses associated with Addy's illness, his family has set up the following web page to donate, indiegogo.com/oobaddy.
