quite magnificent."

Centennial High School's now-retired choir director, Tim Russell, was one of the many choir directors who encouraged The Grotto to continue developing the festival's music program. Just prior to retiring Tim said, "As choir directors we want our singers to enjoy the music that they sing and to gain greater confidence and satisfaction from hearing their voices. To have a good choir experience you need a dedicated director, good singers, good music and good acoustics. And that is exactly what The Grotto provides: absolutely amazing acoustics. My choir loves performing at the Christmas Festival of Lights."

"It is gratifying to see the impact our festival has had over the last 25 years," said Father Topper. "This year 179 concerts will be presented by more than 7,500 volunteer performers who will offer their gift of music. And it's right here in Portland, Oregon, at Northeast 85th and Sandy Boulevard."
