affordable housing, as well as provide the job training people need to find work so they can maintain their housing and support themselves and their families," she said.

City funding does not cover all costs to keep Human Solutions' shelters and programs in operation.

The non-profit relies on the community to donate food and clothing to help sustain families during their shelter stay.

Dennis' 7 Dees Landscape and Gardening Centers raised more than $57,000 to support homeless family programs at a golf tournament this fall, and is now collecting blankets for homeless families at its three Portland-area locations.

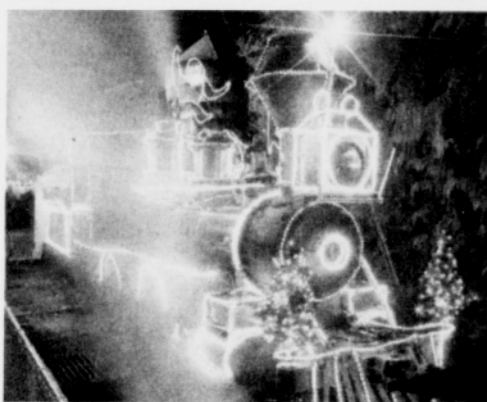

Families use the blankets while at the shelter and take them when they leave. Other urgently needed items include pillows, bus tickets, disposable plates and utensils, and hygiene products, including toothpaste, toothbrushes, and diapers.

Homeless families at the Winter Family Shelter do not have an evening meal or breakfast unless people in the community donate food for them to eat.

For more information on donating or volunteering, contact Amie Diffenauer at 503-841-1728 or adiffenauer@humansolutions.org. For a complete list of needed items or to obtain more information, visit www.humansolutions.org.
