Doo-Wop Infused

Playhouse tackles violence in America

Portland Playhouse presents the World Premiere of The Huntsmen by Quincy Long, as part of the Fertile Ground festival. Performances opened last weekend and will run through Feb. 17 at Portland Playhouse, 602 N.E. Prescott St.

A doo-wop infused meditation on fantasy and violence in American culture, The Huntsmen follows its machete-wielding teenage anti-hero on a delirious downward spiral of crimes and cover-ups. Caught between the real and the surreal, between action and imagination, Devon wades into trouble... and into song, punctuating his wrongdoings with catchy tunes that will stay in your head long after the performance concludes.

The Huntsmen was developed at Portland Center Stage's JAW festival, and features favorite actors on Portland stages including Gavin Gregory, Michael O'Connell and Sharonlee McLean, as well as New York-based newcomer Dean Linnard.

The 1978 cult classic 'Don,' one of India's biggest box office hits, will be previewed Thursday Jan. 31 as part of a celebration of Bollywood.

Hollywood Goes Bollywood

Crime, song, seduction and mistaken identity will light up the screen at the historic Hollywood Theatre when Portland DJ Anjali kicks off the 'Bollywood at the Hollywood' series with the 1978 cult classic 'Don.'

One of India's biggest box office hits, the movie weaves a story of revenge and subterfuge. When the title character of a crime syndicate murders a member of his gang, the dead man's wife and sister want him to pay dearly for his crimes.

A serving of a tasty, Indian-spiced popcorn snack mix handcrafted in Portland, will be part of the festivities, coming Thursday, Jan. 31 at 7 p.m. Admission is $5. The non-profit Hollywood Theater is located at 4122 N.E. Sandy Blvd.
