Portland residents debate water fluoridation:

I don't have a problem with it, I really don't.
--Demetrius Wilson

People think that it's such a great thing because it's mitigating tooth decay but it's toxic.
--Kate Popisil

When I was a kid people in school had a choice of whether or not they wanted fluoride treatment.
-Jason Detour

I don't think fluoride is necessarily a good thing to be injecting into everybody's system.
--Justin Watts

Instead of investing $8 million into a fluoride plant we should invest it in better dental care.
--Ebony Navarez

I grew up in Longview where they had fluoride in the water. I've never had adverse affects.
--David James

Well I have mixed feelings on it. I do think people have the right to choose for their own families.
--Karen Griffis

I don't believe fluoride should be put in the water. I'm a fan of preventative maintenance. Kids should be on point about taking care of their teeth.
--Liana Norton

There's already fluoride in our toothpaste and there's fluoride supplements. I think it's kind of unnecessary.
--Nicole Spisak

Week in The Review

Dalai Lama in Portland

The Dalai Lama concluded an Oregon visit Saturday with a pair of environmentally themed events at a sold-out Memorial Coliseum. The Buddhist monk known as His Holiness said the race to make as money as possible and to spend it on luxuries is not healthy for the planet.

Violence in Cully

Bradley Carl O'Rourke, 30, turned himself in Friday to face murder charges in a May 8 shooting at the Club Skinn bar at Northeast 60th and Prescott Street. During an argument outside the bar, the victim Anton Lashawn Hill, 21, died from a gunshot wound to the head, and his 21-year-old girlfriend was shot once in the arm.

Election Office Evacuated

The Multnomah County Elections building was evacuated Monday afternoon and the hazmat team was called after an employee found a letter containing white powder, according to the Portland Fire Bureau. Authorities have ruled out the powder was a dangerous substance such as anthrax, But the FBI is investigating.
