YOU COULD MAKE HISTORY!

Help name the new transit bridge over the Willamette

For the first time in 40 years, a new bridge will soon span the Willamette River in Portland. The car-free bridge will connect the eastside and westside, helping improve commutes and transit across the region.

While we know what the bridge will do and even what it will look like, we don't know what it will be called—that's why we need your help.
