The Providence Festival of Trees transforms the Oregon Convention Center into a winter wonderland and holiday village.

Festival of Trees a Holiday Tradition

More than 1,200 volunteers will transform a corner of the Oregon Convention Center into a winter wonderland and holiday village for the annual Providence Festival of Trees, opening Thursday, Dec. 5 with a gala evening, tree auction and dinner.

Public shows for audiences of all ages take place on Friday, Dec. 6 from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 7 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

All the attendees will be able to celebrate the season by wandering through the festival's winter wonderland filled with 100 trees of all sizes, wreaths and holiday vignettes created by local designers, businesses and more than 1,200 volunteers. Live music, Santa photos, a teddy bear hospital, an elaborate miniature Christmas village and cookie decorating promise hours of entertainment for those who attend.

The financial support provided by the festival will ensure thousands more young people in Oregon and southwest Washington will benefit from Providence's Heart and Vascular Institute's youth cardiac screening program.
