

Arts & ENTERTAINMENT

PHOTO BY MICHAEL DURHAM, COURTESY OF THE OREGON ZOO.
 Two of the Oregon Zoo's lion cubs play in the Predators of the Serengeti habitat.

Winter at the Zoo

As the Oregon Zoo switches to winter hours this month, visitors will be treated to some new baby-viewing opportunities plus a chance to see history in the making with the construction of Elephant Lands.

The zoo's gates will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with grounds open until 5 p.m. Visitors arriving early are encouraged to beeline for the zoo's Cascade Stream and Pond habitat for a possible sighting of an otter pup swim lesson.

Tilly, a North American river otter, has begun taking her 8-week-old pup, Ziggy, into the water on a daily basis, keepers say.

The three lion cubs born at the zoo last September — Kamali, Zalika and Angalia — will also be spending more time outdoors now that they're adolescents, keepers say. Best bets for watching the triplets play with mom Neka in their Predators of the Serengeti habitat are dry days when the temperature is above 40 degrees.

January also marks a major milestone in the construction of Elephant Lands, the expansive new habitat for the zoo's family of Asian elephants.

"Life's most persistent and urgent question is, 'What are you doing for others?'"

— Martin Luther King, Jr.

At Home Forward, we are committed to answering Dr. King's urgent question. We support participation of minority-owned, women-owned and emerging small businesses on Home Forward projects. Contact us to learn more about what we are doing for others and how you can get involved.

For more information, contact:

Berit Stevenson

Procurement and Contracts Manager
 503.802.8541

Berit.Stevenson@homeforward.org

Hamrawit Gebretsadik

Equity Coordinator
 503.802.8431
 Hamrawit.Gebretsadik@homeforward.org

homeforward.org

homeforward

hope. access. potential.