

Breast Cancer Survivors Group Formed

African-American survivors of breast cancer now have a place to receive support, resources, and educational activities and programs specifically for them; the Sisters Network Oregon and SW Washington.

A Northwest spinoff of the Sisters Network Inc., the group will host meetings every second Saturday at the Key Delta Community Center located at 5940 N. Albina Ave. Due to the snowfall last weekend, the first meeting scheduled for Feb. 8 was cancelled, but will continue as planned each month from here on out.

Group meetings for African American survivors of breast cancer will be held from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., while general public meetings will immediately follow from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m.

For information about the Sisters Network Oregon and SW Washington, contact Peggy C. Ross, president of the group, at oregonswwa@sistersnetworkinc.org or 503-206-8575.

ADRC

Aging and Disability
Resource Connection
of OREGON

Support and services relating to:

• Aging • Disabilities • Veterans

- Abuse reporting
- Transportation
- In-home support
- Public benefits
- Other related issues
- Housing resources
- Meals
- Legal resources
- Medicare help
- Caregiver support

Toll Free 1-855-673-2372

TTY 711

www.ADRCoforegon.org

Warren Washington

Climate Change, Societal Impacts, and Environmental Justice

Warren M. Washington, senior scientist at the National Center for Atmospheric Research, was among the first scientists to develop models that evaluate humankind's impact on the global environment.

Washington will discuss climate models, show simulations of future climate change, address scientific uncertainty, and analyze potential policy options.

February 13

7 p.m.

Agnes Flanagan Chapel

A reception will follow.

Lewis & Clark

www.lclark.edu