Tears of Joy Theatre presents Edgar Allan Poe's 'The Tell-Tale Heart,' adapted by David Treptow, on Saturday, March 1 at 2 p.m. at the Hollywood Theatre, 4122 N.E. Sandy Blvd.

Tale of a Madman

What drives a person to murder? Tears of Joy Theatre invites you to join them for a tale of a madman and see what lies at the bottom of his heart.

"The Tell-Tale Heart," is presented on Saturday, March 1 at 2 p.m. at the Hollywood Theatre in northeast Portland. Adapted from Edgar Allan Poe's infamous short story, this production blends live actors, mask, and puppets.

The Old Man, a wonderfully bony and decrepit looking life-sized puppet is brought to life with three hooded operators. His caretaker, played by a live actor, continuously affirms his sanity as he fixates on the Old Man's glowing eye, spiraling further and further into obsessive madness, and, eventually, murder.

The production will give shivers of horrific delight to adults and older children alike. Not recommended for youth under 10. Tickets are $15. Visit hollywoodtheatre.org or call 503-281-4215.

One history.

Celebrating our nation's promise and progress.

Black history isn't just words on a page. It echoes in the footsteps of civil rights marchers. It comes to life with the words of great leaders like Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. And it continues to ripple through generations, changing us all for the better. Wells Fargo honors Black history, which is American history.

Wells Fargo is proud to present The Kinsey Collection: Shared Treasures of Bernard and Shirley Kinsey - Where Art and History Intersect. This nationally touring exhibition helps share the often untold story of African American achievements and contributions to American history.
