True Love Knows No Bounds

The Northwest Premiere of The Quality of Life by Jane Anderson is now playing through May 11 at Artists Repertory Theatre.

Former Artists Rep Artistic Director Allen Nause directs this provocative and deeply moving production featuring a stellar cast of some of Portland's most well-known and talented actors.

It turns out that true love knows no bounds, family roots run true and there are a few things red wine and a bong hit won't fix. Jeanette and Neil live off the land in a yurt on the site of their northern California home, recently destroyed by a massive fire. Neil is dying. Jeannette's long-lost cousin and her husband are coming from the Midwest for a visit after losing their daughter. In a love story and comedic drama that plumbs societal, religious and ethical divides, the couples explore their respective life perspectives with finesse, humor, honesty and respect.

"I love this play because it is built around death but is ultimately about what it means to live, and our responsibility to the loved ones we leave behind" Nause said. "This is a tricky play, full of surprises and landmine issues—but they are treated so delicately that it is hard to stick to side, you may walk in with notions, but be prepared to shift."
