Folk, Blues ^{and} Country

An up-and-coming singer and musician who has been featured by NPR, Rolling Stone, American Songwriter and other media outlets, will perform in Portland during the opening weekend of the Rose Festival at Waterfront Park, downtown.

Valerie June was raised in small towns in Tennessee, and moved to Memphis following high school to absorb as much of the music of the MidSouth as she could. She feeds the sounds of the church, folk, blues and country to her mind and pours them out through original music and stage savvy.
