victory of Sharon Maxwell, another African-American community leader who ran for a local office; and City Councilmen Dan Saltzman was elected to his fifth consecutive four-year term beating out a field of three candidates with a commanding 64 percent of represents one of the oldest African American Church in Oregon.

The general public is asked to contribute information that pertains to existing structures with any African American association in their histories and cemeteries with African American burials. These places can be buildings anywhere in Oregon where African Americans worked, sites where important events happened, or objects created, installed, or inspired by African Americans.

The ultimate goal is to create a multiple property document that identifies sites for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places. If you know of any places like this, you are encouraged to share your information on the website makeoregonhistory.org. The information will be added to the collection of the Oregon Black Pioneers and the Oregon Historic Sites Database.

Provide as much information as you can, but it is okay to leave blanks if you do not know the particular information requested, officials said.

If you have any questions about the survey project, you may email Kimberly Moreland, Oregon Black Pioneers project manager at historic_places@qwestoffice.net or Kuri Gill, Oregon Heritage, Grants and Outreach Coordinator at Kuri.Gill@oregon.gov.
