Discover Oregon's Bounty!

31st annual Bite of Oregon this weekend

The Bite of Oregon, a stunning celebration of Oregon, its food, its people, and its extraordinary quality of life, returns to Portland's Waterfront Park, Friday, Aug. 8 through Sunday, Aug. 10. All proceeds from the 31st annual event go directly to benefit Special Olympics Oregon.

Jenn Louis and Joe Kim are among the celebrity chefs who will join in the festivities.

Louis' cooking philosophy is to be consistent, simple and purposeful. These values all show through in her entrepreneurial culinary endeavors, which include Lincoln Restaurant, Sunshine Tavern and Culinary Artistry.

Kim, who was recently nominated for a 2014

James Beard Foundation award as one of the 20 top Northwest chefs, is part owner and executive chef of the Five Fusion & Sushi Bar, a restaurant that creates culinary magic by fusing Eastern and Western flavors while focusing on local, organic ingredients.

Kim will be participating at the Oregon Bounty Chef's Table, where he will be paired with one of the eight agricultural commissions. Louis is teaming up with Shun designer, Tommie Lucas, to demonstrate proper knife skills and to offer samples of some of her recipes.

The Bite of Oregon runs from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Sunday. General admission tickets are $5. For more information, visit biteoforegon.com

Tiny and Spiny Arrivals

Hakuna Matata, an African pygmy hedgehog at the Oregon Zoo, gave birth to a litter of five on July 7, and last week the zoo was able to get some pictures of the prickly 3-week-olds. The tiny, spiny hoglets weigh just a tenth of a pound each, and when curled up in a ball they are about the size of a doughnut hole.
