Bikes for Kids

A mother guides her daughter on the cycling course at the Community Cycling Center's 'Bikes for Kids' festivities Saturday at the Rockwood Boys and Girls Club at 165th and Stark in Gresham. The non-profit cycling center gave away 100 brand new bikes to deserving children during the event.

Kids Free Second Saturdays

The World Forestry Center Discovery Museum is offering free admission to kids 18 and under the second Saturday of every month through the end of the year.

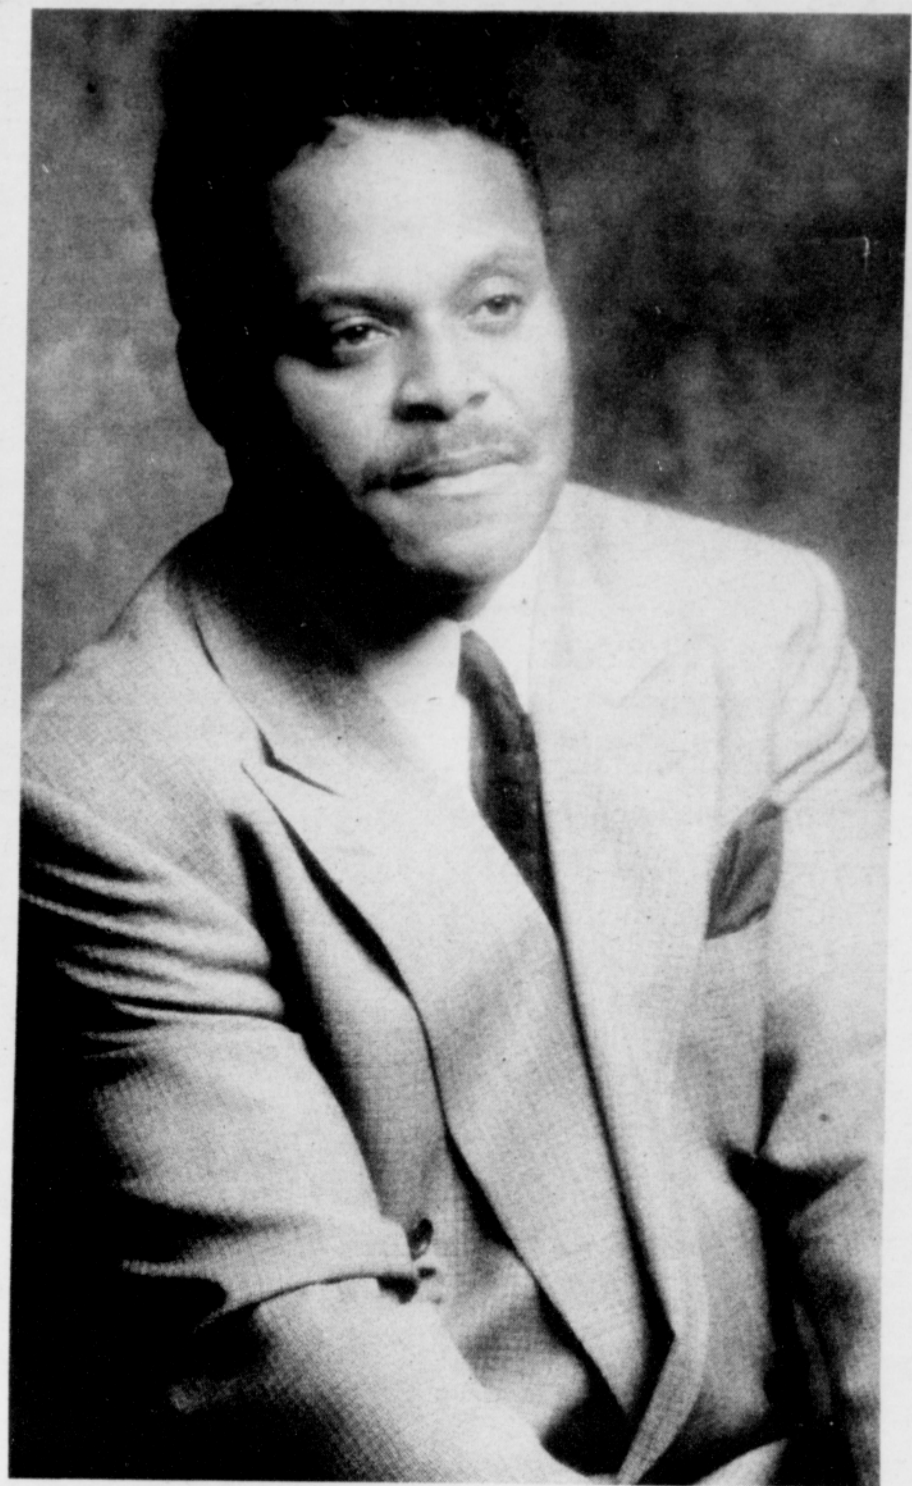

Each second Saturday, between 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., visitors can participate in family-friendly crafts, games and educational activities centered around trees and nature, as well as special guest demonstrations from community partners like the Backyard Bird Shop and Talk About Trees.

Visitors can also view the museum's current special exhibits at no charge, like "The Art of Dr. Seuss" or the kid-friendly "Go Figure!" exhibit which opens on Sept. 6 and uses popular children's books to engage children in the exciting world of math and its everyday uses.

The World Forestry Center at Washington Park is a nonprofit educational organization whose mission is to "educate and inform people about the world's forests and trees, and environmental sustainability."
