New Seasons Market opens its Grant Park store in the new Grant Park Village complex at 3210 N.E. Broadway with a grand opening celebration on Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Growing New Seasons Market 15th store comes to Grant Park Village complex

Locally owned and operated New Seasons Market will open the doors of its new Grant Park Village store, located at 3210 N.E. Broadway, on Wednesday, Nov. 12 at 7 a.m. Neighbors, community partners, food purveyors and civic leaders are invited to the Grand Opening celebration at 10 a.m.

New Seasons Market Chief Executive Officer Wendy Collie will be joined by representatives from All Hands Raised, Happy Cup Coffee Company, Hollywood Senior Center, Growing Gardens and the Grant High School Pep Band for a bread breaking ceremony to celebrate the store's official opening.

"We're thrilled this community has welcomed us with open arms," says Collie. "It's great to be surrounded by neighbors who have deep roots here going back many generations, as well as new neighbors, like us, who are becoming a part of Grant Park's future."

The 15th New Seasons store anchors the new Grant Park Village mixed-use development built on the site of a reclaimed brownfield.

Home to everything you would want in the ultimate neighborhood grocery store, a broad selection of natural and organic grocery products are offered alongside familiar and favorite conventional brands. Shoppers can find what they need and have choices to please a variety of tastes, diets and lifestyles.

Special amenities available at the Grant Park store include a fresh juice and smoothie bar, a toast bar with assorted spreadable toppings, and colorful and unique artwork by local Portland artists. Shoppers can also count on friendly and knowledgeable staff to answer questions, offer samples and inspire meal ideas.

Multi-Ethnic Salon Opens

Marcus Pack welcomes customers to his new Packasso Grooming and Barbershop business, a multi-ethnic, multi-generational hair salon in the new Magnolia Building at 3262 N.E. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd.

A young man from northeast Portland has turned his dreams of owning a barbershop serving a multi-ethnic and multi-generational clientele into reality.

Marcus Pack, son of local pastor Johnny Pack, recently opened doors to his Packasso Grooming & Barbershop, located in the new Magnolia Building at 3262 N.E. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd.

Pack prides himself on running a multi-cultural-focused salon, free of harsh chemicals, that focuses on uplifting black and multi-ethnic hair. The shop offers a variety of customized and one-of-a-kind looks to choose from, and offers services from basic haircuts, to dreadlocks, flat ironing, natural conditioning, braids and even weaves and extensions.

Packasso offers all first-time clients a discount on their first service. Appointments and walk-ins are both accepted gladly. The shop is open six days a week. To make an appointment, call 503-87-0758.
