

Senior Community Honors Dream

"I Have a Dream, Too" is the theme of the first annual Mary's Woods celebration service honoring the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Scheduled for Monday, Jan. 19 at 9:30 a.m. in the Chapel of the Holy Names at the Mary's Woods senior community in Lake Oswego, the celebration will feature seven diverse speakers from different age groups reflecting on their dream for our society based on the principles of social justice and equality.

Portland's Northwest Freedom Singers, an African-American singing group comprised of some of the city's finest voices, will perform.

"This day of remembrance reminds us of our call and our responsibility to create a world where in Dr. King's words, 'all will be judged by the content of their character,'" said Marvin Kaiser, chief executive officer of Mary's Woods.

Admission is free and refreshments will be served. The event is co-sponsored by the City of Lake Oswego Parks and Recreation Department, which will provide free shuttle service from the parking lot of the Lake Oswego Adult Community Center at 505 G Avenue, starting at 8:45 a.m.

classrooms. The Center for Careers in Education and the Portland Teachers Program are housed there, as well as the new childcare center housing Albina Head Start and Early Head Start. PCC received an $8 million matching grant from Oregon's Community Colleges Workforce Development Department for this building.

The Student Union is a 36,000-square-foot building that replaces an outdated, 1970s-era Student Center. Amenities include food service and dining areas, student clubs and government offices, a study/lounge area, flexible meeting space, Women's Resource Center, Multicultural Center and the International Education Program offices.

The area between the two new buildings is a landscaped plaza that will be part of an east-west "mall" running through the entire campus once construction is complete. Below the plaza and the two buildings is the underground parking garage that opened this past September.

The 211-space garage is the first of its kind to be built on any PCC campus. Its design was part of the college's commitment to the neighbors and the city of Portland to reduce the number of college-related vehicles parking on local streets.
