Homeless Youth Stories

Creative mentoring brings production

A new performance is hitting Portland this weekend. "Maybe It's Because...(I'm So Versatile)" is a performance piece written and performed by homeless and transitional youth.

The number of youth in Portland without a permanent home is growing every year. Well Arts, a Portland-based organization focused on promoting health and wellbeing through writing for theater, teamed up with p:ear, a transitional youth organization, to help local youth cope with their situation.

Portland audiences will walk away from the performance with greater awareness and knowledge of ways to help and interact with this tight-knit community.

You're invited to take in the show on Saturday, Jan. 31 or Sunday, Feb. 1 at 6 p.m. at p:ear, 338 N.W. Sixth Ave. in the Old Town district.

Tickets run $10 for general admission and $7 for seniors, students, and children under 18. For more information or to purchase tickets online, visit wellsarts.org.
