

Arts & ENTERTAINMENT

The 'Beat Goes On Marching Band' will be one of many groups to perform at the 'Fun Over Fifty Fair' on Saturday, April 11 at the Elsie Stuhr Center in Beaverton.

'Fun Over 50' in Beaverton

Beaverton will hold a 'Fun Over Fifty Fair' with music, drama and dance to introduce older residents to affordable and fun opportunities.

The free event will be held on Saturday, April 11 from 1:30 p.m.

to 4 p.m. at the Elsie Stuhr Center, 5550 S.W. Hall Blvd.

"There are many great activities for older adults in Beaverton," said Mayor Denny Doyle. "This fair will be an opportunity to learn more and have some fun."

The live entertainment will include the Beat Goes On Marching Band, the Westernaires country line dance group, Northwest Senior Theatre, Dance Fit Oregon, Hula Hulau dance group, and the Encore Senior Players.

Arbor Day Fun at Park Blocks

Portland Parks and Recreation invites the public to celebrate trees and the great outdoors with an Arbor Day Festival at the Southwest Park Blocks, located near Portland State University, downtown.

Events are scheduled Friday, April 10, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., including free squirrel-eye views of the city with bucket truck rides for everyone; and Saturday, April 11, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. with free, family fun, games, and activities.

"Tree Are for Everyone," is the celebration theme. "The benefits we receive from trees are well known," says Portland Parks Commissioner Amanda Fritz. "We have a unique city, with nature and our urban life intertwined like few other places. Arbor Day is a wonderful chance for people to connect with nature through a wide variety of fun and educational activities."
