Waterfront Blues Weekend

Jarekus Singleton, Christone "Kingfish" Ingram, Terry "Harmonica" Bean, Jimmy "Duck" Holmes, Corey Ledet and his Zydeco Band, Dog Hill Stompers, Rosie Ledet and the Zydeco Playboys.

"From top to bottom, in terms of the range and diversity of our Blues 'mix,' this year's lineup is our strongest ever," said the festival's artistic director Peter Dammann. "We've got legacy blues and blues rockers passing the torch to a stunning new generation of blues performers, along with Zydeco tunes for the blues/swing dance floor and funky neo-soul that's embraced by the young jam band scene."

In all, there will be 100 blues acts on four stages over the July 4th weekend to benefit Oregon Food Bank's mission of fighting hunger and its root causes.

"The Safeway Waterfront Blues Festival is Oregon Food Bank's single largest fundraising event. We work year-round to secure these amazing acts in order to raise funds for hunger relief in Oregon and Clark County, Washington," said Laura Golino de Lovato, Food Bank director of development, marketing and communications. "This year's Blues Fest is as important as ever. Demand for food assistance remains exceptionally high because not everyone has benefitted from an 'improved' economy."

Special Tribute to B.B. King Sylvester to open festival honoring Blues great

On Thursday, Thursday, July 2, at 2:15 p.m., on the opening day of this year's Waterfront Blues Festival, Norman "Boogie Cat" Sylvester will play a special set to honor his greatest Blues influence, BB King, who died this May just four months short of his 90th birthday.

Sylvester, a Portland Blues legend, was born on his grandmother's farm in Louisiana and was only allowed to listen to music in church and to his father's Gospel quartet that played sometimes on the radio. In town he could hear the Juke boxes playing BB and other early Blues players out of the Barrel Houses. Sylvester could tell the party was jumping on those back streets.

The Norman Sylvester Band opened for BB King in 1987 and again in 1991. Besides sharing the fact that they both have "Blues Stains on their Hands," Sylvester always gave tribute to the King of the Blues on Sept. 16, the birthday they shared exactly 20 years apart.

It's been a tough year of loss for our music community, but as Sylvester always says, "Music can heal the soul."

Norman Sylvester will play a special set to honor his greatest Blues influence B.B. King on Thursday, June 2 at 2:15 p.m. on the opening day of this year's Waterfront Blues Festival.
