Native American Heritage Celebration

Vancouver's diverse community will participate in a showcase of native regalia, song, dance, and other activities during a Second Saturday event in honor of Native American Heritage Month.

The public is invited to discover more about this rich history and take part in this year's family-fun activities from 1 to 3 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 14, at the City of Vancouver's Water Center, 4600 S.E. Columbia Way.

The free activities will begin with a Chinook blessing, followed by traditional music and song. Highlighting the event will be the native runway showcasing distinctive regalia, clothing, and adornments meaningful to each dancer and dance.

Visitors can also enjoy displays featuring information about the Cathlapotle Plankhouse, built at the Ridgefield National Wildlife Refuge, and native bead and basketwork. These displays will be up through the end of the year.
