Renewal and Repurpose

July 29 – A new chapter begins for what was once a rundown corner of northeast Portland's Cully Neighborhood as a coalition of local nonprofits and community organizations have united to purchase and transform the triangle block of land that for years accommodated strip clubs and other adult businesses.

Our Roots Run Deep

Aug. 12 – Local genealogist and historian Stephen Hanks is bringing local African American history to life with his community tours project, showcasing some of the historic places where black people lived in the city and state.

Ambassadors for Peace

Aug. 19 – Regena Warren and a collaborative group Black Women for Peace give voice to youth and gang violence by promoting responsibility and empowerment at their annual Peace Festival.

Finally Teammates

Sept. 16 – For the first time in their academic careers, two Portland brothers, four years apart, are playing football on the same team. Cameron Scarlett and his brother Brennan's tenure as teammates at Stanford University will only last a season, but their shared experience will remain a standout moment in their lives.

How do you share health?

At Health Share, we believe good health is more than what happens inside your doctor's office. Good health starts in your community and includes staying active, eating healthy food and getting regular check-ups.

Share your healthy habits with family and friends. We can all have better health when we share it together.
