Swashbuckling Peter Pan

Portland Playhouse, a northeast Portland performance venue making theatre for diverse audiences opens a Broadway style show this week at its intimate 100 seat theater, the old church at 602 N.E. Prescott St.

Peter and the Starcatcher is a swashbuckling, family-friendly prequel to Peter Pan and one of the most Tony Award-nominated plays of all time. From the brig of a pirate ship to mermaids' coves, we discover exactly how Peter became the boy who never grew up.

More than 100 characters rollick and roll through this hilarious and touching true-to-Broadway action adventure.

"This play could have very easily come through Portland as part of the Broadway Across America tour and played at the Keller Auditorium. Instead, we get to make it at Portland Playhouse!" said Brian Weaver who co-directs the play and is a founder for the local theater group.

Now showing through May 29. Tickets are $20-36. Visit portland-playhouse.org or call 503-488-822.
