His involvement and long association with Vancouver Avenue First Baptist has included work directing several of the church choirs. With his passion for African American history, he has served as an official church historian. In 2010, he became the author of the highly regarded book, "Vancouver Avenue First Baptist Church, Yesterday, Today and Forever."

In 2016, Burrell was successful in preparing and nominating the church as a National Landmark on the Register of Historic Places. He is currently working on preparing the documentation in getting the African-American Billy Webb's Elks Lodge in north Portland listed on the Register of Historical Places.
