

The Week in Review

Repeal and Replace Dead

Republicans were reeling Tuesday after the Senate's three Republican women declared their opposition and killed the GOP's effort to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act, a failure to make good on a GOP promise that has defined the party for nearly a decade and has been one of Trump's top priorities.

Trump Approval at All Time Low

Polls by ABC News and the Washington Post on Monday reported Trump's approval ratings at an all time low of 36 percent the lowest in 70 years for a new president. A Monmouth University survey showed that 41 percent of Americans think Trump should be impeached and made to leave office, significantly more than the 24 percent of Americans who said in July 1973 that Richard Nixon should exit the White House.

Portland Superintendent Search Narrows

The newly comprised Portland Public School Board has interviewed seven candidates to lead the district as its next superintendent and chosen four finalists, all which have experience as educators, school officials reported Monday. It's the second attempt to replace former Superintendent Carole Smith who retired last summer.

Schools Discrimination Case Upheld

A Multnomah County judge on Monday upheld a May jury verdict against Portland Public Schools awarding two black maintenance workers $500,000 each for enduring a racially hostile work environment.

Gonorrhea Epidemic in Oregon

Since 2012, gonorrhea cases have tripled across the state, as drug resistant strains of the disease are increasing. If left untreated, gonorrhea can have permanent and long term health problems for both men and women. Officials in some counties are launching online awareness and door to door campaigns to help get people treated.

Protest Shooter Sentenced

An 18-year-old who helped his 14-year-old friend get away after shooting a Trump protester on the Morrison Bridge in November will be sentenced to 7.5 years in prison. Shamar Xavier Hunter pleaded guilty Thursday to unlawful use of a weapon -- under the theory that he aided and abetted the 14-year-old -- for the Nov. 12 shooting that left Trump protester Luis Paredes with a bullet wound to the leg.

Correction: Summer Jobs for Youth

A recent welcoming ceremony to a SummerWorks internship program for local youth supported by a wide coalition of local governmental agencies and private businesses included representatives of the city of Portland and Mayor Wheeler, but the mayor himself did not attend. The mayor's comments in support of the program were made earlier. We regret the error in our coverage of the summer jobs program in last week's issue. In addition, we are sorry for omitting a photo credit that should have been given courtesy of Motoya Nakamura of Multnomah County.

Part 13. Shoulder Pain: Why many people cannot, and should not, take it lying down.

Q: My shoulders hurt so bad at times, I can hardly sleep. What can Chiropractic do for me that no one else has been able to?

A: Shoulder pain is without question, one of the most debilitating types of pain we encounter. Because the shoulder is so intricately related to the spine, virtually any movement can be excruciating. It is not at all uncommon to see cases like yours where patients' hurt so bad, they cannot even get a decent night's sleep. To Complicate matters, many patients go from doctor to doctor seeking relief, being told they have bursitis at one office, tenosynovitis at another and so on until they return home confused, frustrated and still in agony. As Chiropractors, we are concerned about nerve flow to the various parts of the body. Of course, we look to see if a bursal sac has been traumatized or if a tendon has been injured. But more importantly, we look to see what caused the injury. You see, the cause was there long before the pain itself. By treating the cause, we not only relieve the pain, don't suffer through another sleepless night. Call for an appointment to find out how Chiropractic can eliminate the cause of the problem once and for all. Or feel free to call us if you have any questions whatsoever about your health.
