

Celebrating "100 Years Old"

Bendix Minnieweather was born Sept. 9, 1917, that would make him 100 years old. He was a humble yet successful Black man who lived and worked in Portland, Oregon, a true entrepreneur, a Holy man who lived and worked for God. He was born in Louisiana and like so many others he moved to the West Coast to work on the Shipyards.

He was not fortunate to have a proper education; you would never know it by his legacy. He worked in real-estate for several years owning more than a half dozen properties, he owned Mennie's Restaurant on N. Mississippi and Failing Street and was CEO of Minnieweather Janitorial Service for over 30 years.

His greatest accomplishments came from working for God, he was the Pastor and Elder of New Jerusalem Church of God in Christ. He has left a legacy that others would truly want to emulate.

Attend a Vesper Concert

People to People Ministries invites the public to attend a Vesper Concert, a traditional night of prayers and song featuring the 300 Watts Trio, a group consisting of three siblings from Portland who have been playing together the past five years as an ensemble with their jazz, Latin and eastern music influenced creations.

The concert will take place at Stone Tower Adventist Church, located at 3010 N.E. Holladay on Saturday, Sept. 30 at 6 p.m., and also feature Wanda Vaz, Jeanine

& Shannon Goodwin, Rebecca Stevenson and Carl Parker

A free-will offering will be taken to aid hungry children and families in the Portland metro area. For more information, call 503-893-9022 or visit peopletopeopleministries.com

'Terrance' Makes a Statement

Cool Nutz (aka Terrance Scott), Portland's popular rapper, radio personality and record label entrepreneur, has set Sept. 29 for the release of his new EP "Terrance." An album release party will be held Saturday, Sept. 30 at the Ash Street.

A track from the album called "What You Think I'm On," has already made a statement for high-powered rap. The piece features some of the West Coast's most respected MCs, including Illmaculate and Mistah FAB with production from LawzSpoken.

Portland hip hop icon Cool Nutz gets ready for the Sept. 29 release of his latest EP 'Terrance.'
