Bill Hart, a long time member of Portland's African American community and co-founder of Carleton-Hart Architects 25 years ago, has earned a lifetime achievement award for his work in the design field.

Hart was honored by the Daily Journal of Commerce this month for building diversity in the architectural profession. He leads by example, said Kelly Chanopas, chair of the Committee on Equity, Diversity and Inclusion for the Portland chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

"His commitment is evident in his professional practice with his focus on community and finding equitable solutions to design challenges," Chanopas said. "Bill

Teens Charged in St. John's Shooting

Arrests bring some relief to family of victim

Three teenagers are facing murder charges in the death of Ricky Malone Sr., 65, a long time resident of Portland's black community who was killed with a shotgun blast to his chest while collecting cans for extra money on Oct. 14 on North Mohawk Avenue in St. Johns.

Police said the three young males, identified as Eugene Woodruff, 14, and Aaron Lewis Criswell and Richard Jerome Rand, both

15, are accused of confronting Malone, someone at least one of the boys knew from the neighborhood, in an attempt to steal his car which was idling nearby

When Malone refused to turn over his vehicle, Criswell allegedly shot him at close up range, according to court documents.

Just 15 minutes earlier, at about 3:45 a.m., the trio had reportedly tried to burglarize a nearby house on North Midway Avenue while Rand was dressed in a clown mask, police said, but were chased away by the resident. Though Criswell and Rand are minors, under current Oregon law, at this point, both are being charged as adults under Ballot Measure 11, authorities said. All will appear in court again later this month.

Malone's body was discovered in the 10200 block of North Mohawk Avenue by John Phillips, who was driving his son to a Bible study class. The teens are accused of taking his car after the shooting and going on a ride that lasted several hours, police said.

Surveillance cameras captured the suspects stopping at a Taco Bell for something to eat. Several hit-and-runs involving the stolen
