Winter Soul Festival Saturday

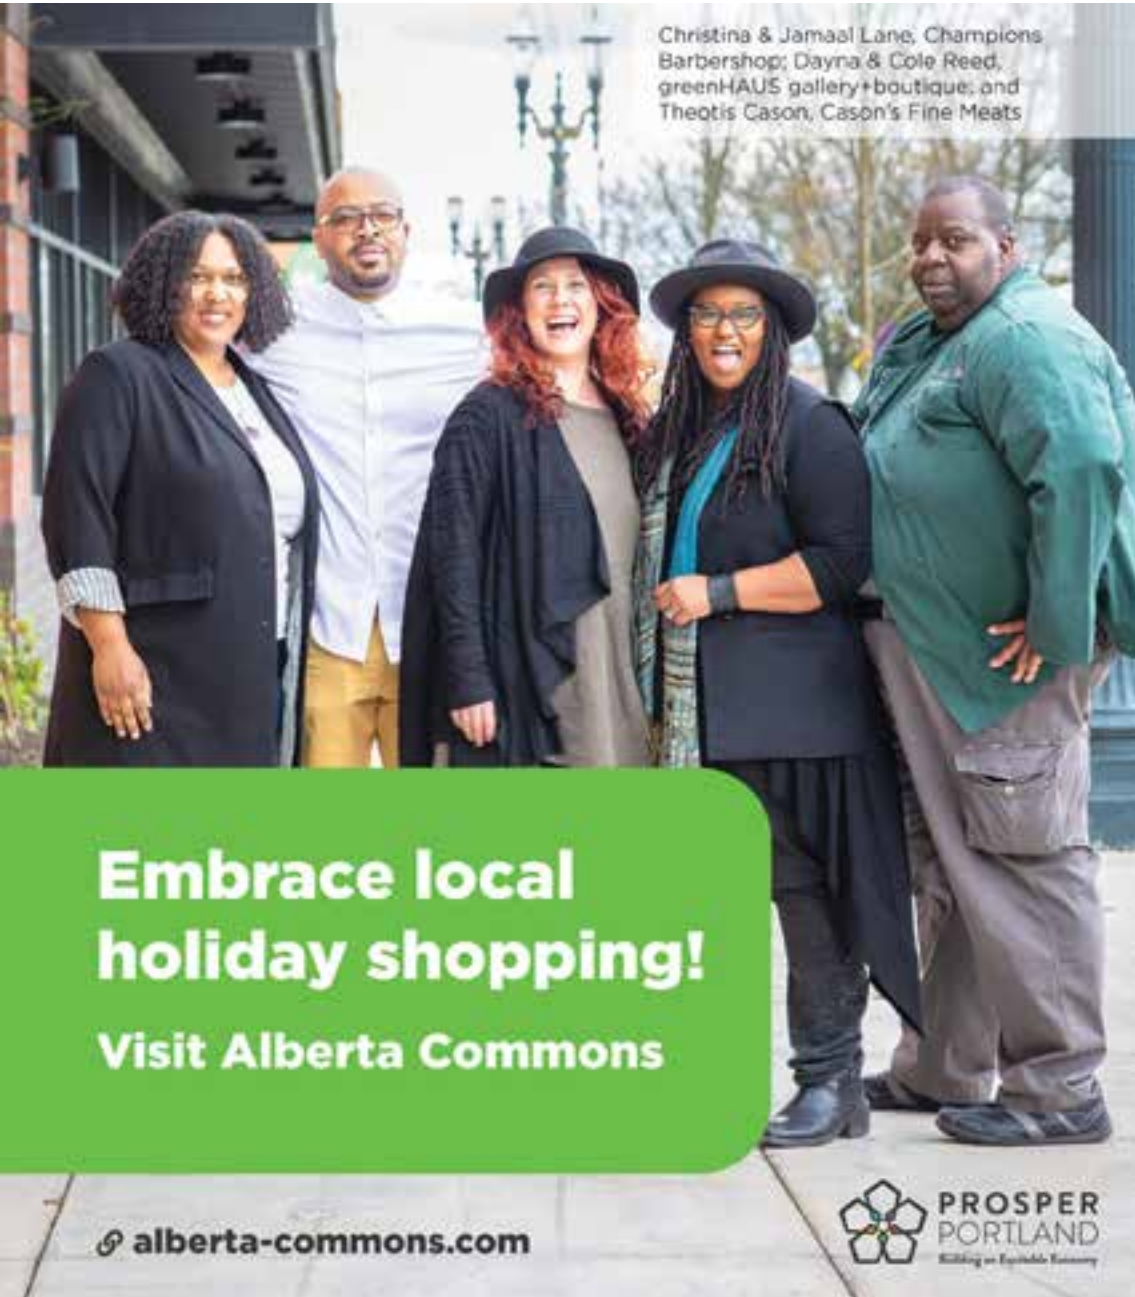

Four of Portland's best soulful acts will front the Winter Soul Festival at Alberta Abby, 126 N.E. Alberta St., on Saturday, Dec. 21 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The annual event will feature live gospel, hip hop, holiday videos and comedy skits, headlined by Tamara Monique Walker, aka FIYA, meaning Faith Is Your Answer, and the Hidden Jewels Choir; I Am Jordan, a singer who grew up in a household of Gospel and soul, and Arietta "Mz. Etta" Ward, the eldest daughter of Portland's late, legendary soul singer Janice Scroggins who has followed her mother's path in music and has a soon to be released solo album.

Tickets are $15 to $25 at eventbrite.com or the box office. A free shuttle can get you to the concert by calling 503-863-4383.

Ural Thomas

Ural Thomas 80th Birthday Party

Historic concert to honor Portland music legend

Ural Thomas, a pillar of Portland soul and the acclaimed R&B funkmaster who has shared stages with the likes of Otis Redding and James Brown, is celebrating his 80th birthday with a special concert on Saturday, Dec. 21 at Revolution Hall, the former Washington High School in southeast Portland.

Presented by the Albina Music Trust and Cookie Parker, and produced by Portland's World Arts Foundation, the historic birthday party production will feature Thomas and his current group, Ural Thomas & the Pain; singer, songwriter and producer Nick Waterhouse; rapper Covi; and comedian Adam Pasi.

Paul Knauls Sr. and Calvin Walker will serve as masters of ceremonies. Knauls once ran Portland's definitive soul music revue, the Cotton Club. He played an integral role in Thomas' early career and now, over 50 years later, their friendship and shared history endure. In the late 1960s, Walker was one of Ural Thomas' many soul music pupils at Thomas' House of Entertainment.

Tickets for the all-ages 8 p.m. show are $20 in advance and $25 at the door. Visit revolutionhall.com or the venue box office.
