

Clark College Honors MLK

Andrew Jolivéte

Clark College will honor the teachings of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on Wednesday, Jan. 20, with an online event celebrating Black leadership and creativity.

Guest speaker Dr. Andrew Jolivéte, professor and chair-elect of the Ethnic Studies Department at the University of California, San Diego, will present his topic "Black Lives, Black Leadership: From Matterng to Thriving." Also planned is the singing of the Black National Anthem by God-Sisterz as well as artwork from local artists Manny Dempsey and Hobbs Waters.

The public is welcome to participate via Zoom video conferencing from 12:30 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. For more information, including the link to the Zoom meeting, visit clark.edu/cc/mlk.

homes.

The distribution of a second round of vaccines in February is expected to reach more people, essential workers like teachers and grocery store clerks and people older than 75, but details have yet to be released.

As more vaccine doses become available in 2021, health officials remind people to remain vigilant by wearing a mask, washing hands, and maintaining physical distancing.

There comes a time when one must take a position that is neither safe nor politic nor popular, but he must take it because his conscience tells him it is right. --Martin Luther King, Jr.
